

We're Bringing the JOY of reading and learning to children with dyslexia.
And YOU can help.

The Challenge of Dyslexia

A small boy sits at his desk, looking down at his open book as his classmates read aloud. He wrinkles his forehead and squints his eyes but the letters and words he sees are jumbled, twisted, and senseless. He grips the book tighter, holds his breath and makes a silent wish that the teacher will not call on him ...

This child has dyslexia, a learning disability that affects 1 out of every 5 children. He needs help to overcome it before it sets him back emotionally as well as educationally. Where will he get the help he needs?

Requires the Help of Many

We are committed to continue to offer services to as many children as we can – free of charge. To do this, we need the help of many. The Children's Learning Center is exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Service and all contributions are tax deductible.
